Numb. 464.

Containing the freshest Advices, Foreign and Domestick.

From Thursday June 13, to Thursday June 20, 1745.

CONSTANTINOPLE, February 2. O. S.

THE Embassadors and Foreign Ministers residing here, having been invited a few Days ago to a Conference at the Grand Vizir's Palace, this prime Minister made a very pathetick Speech on all the Evils that wait upon War; and then told them, that the Grand Signior having maturely considered the great Prejudice done to Trade by the Dissensions and Hostilities among the Christian Princes, he thought fit to offer them his Mediation: That his Highness had wrote to them on this Head, and that he did not doubt but they would give him satisfactory Answers.

The Persian Kan, who lately came over to the Porte's Service, has been sent into the Province of Diarbekir, where he is to command an Army of 50,000 Men, in Conjunction with the Bashaw in those Parts. The Grand Signior has remitted him 500 Purles for the Pay of those Troops, and given him a Commissary, who is to have the Administration of that Sum. This Kan passes for a very good General.

Turin, Feb. 16. O. S. We are disposing every Thing here for opening the ensuing Campaign very early, and with the utmost Vigour. We are informed that all the Spanish Troops in Savoy are in full March for Provence, in order to pass that Way into the County of Nice, where they are to join the Army of the Infant Don Philip, and to attempt penetrating that Way into the Territories of the King our Sovereign. In all appearance, the Spaniards depend very much upon the Succours they expect from the Genoese; in which however, they may be very possibly disappointed; since we are assured, that a Squadron of Eighteen English Men of War are returned to the Islands of Hieres, and that the Consul and Merchants of that Nation, residing at Genoa, have receiv'd Orders to hold themselves in Readiness to depart on the shortest Warning; so that the Genoese may very soon have enough to do with their own Affairs, without troubling their Heads with those of their Neighbours.

Petersburg, Feb. 19. O. S. Lord Tyrawley having taken Leave of the Empress, proposes to set out in a few Days for England. Her Imperial Majesty has made him a Present of her Picture, set with Diamonds, valued at 6000 Rubles. Lord Hyndford will soon take the Title of Envoy Extraordinary from his Britannick Majesty. The Empress has caused it to be declared to the Hungarian and Prussian Ministers, that she is resolved to employ her good Offices, in order to put a Stop to the Troubles of Germany.

Vienna, Feb. 27. O. S. Advices from Berlin bring, that the King of Prussia had given fresh Orders to force into his Service out of the Villages of Silesia the fifth Man of every Family, which had so terrified the Inhabitants, that the greatest Part of them chose rather to abandon their Habitations and Inheritance, and take Refuge with their Families in Poland, then submit to such rigorous Ordinances, inasmuch that several Villages of that Country are totally depopulate.

Copenhagen, March 9. O. S. The 3d Instant an Edict was read in all the Pulpits in this City, whereby the King declares, 'That being resolved to extirpate in his Dominions the Fanaticism of the Herrenbutter.' [the same as the Moravian Brethren, and much of a Piece, as we apprehend, with the White-felites and Wesleyans, or the modern New-Light Men, in this Country] 'he orders all those who have suffer'd themselves 'to be blinded by the Errors of those Sectaries, to conform 'to the Establish'd Religion, or else depart his Dominions 'forever.' His Majesty allows them a Year to instruct themselves in the Lutheran Religion, and renounce their Errors; after which Term the Edict will be put in Execution with the utmost Rigour.

Mentz, March 10. Some Days ago, as a Party of French were preparing to pass the Rhine in four or five Boats, and land in the Rhingow, a Number of Peasants got together, and stood upon them, which obliged the French to retire; but none of their People were either kill'd or wounded. M. Maillaboix immediately requir'd Satisfaction for this Affront; whereupon the Elector order'd 15 of the Peasants to be taken up, and the Matter having been examin'd into, three of their Chiefs were condemn'd to Imprisonment and hard Labour for a Year; but now the French General has sent to demand those three Men, in order to hang them up in the Face of his Army. He also requires, that the Elector should immediately give up his little Fortress of Konigstein to be garrison'd by French Troops, and that his Highness likewise should instantly furnish upwards of 800,000 Rations for the Use of the French Army. The Elector having receiv'd these Demands, immediately sent Count Ingelheim to expostulate with the Marshal upon the Unreasonableness and Cruelty of them; but that Gentleman return'd Yesterday Morning from Hoechst, without having obtain'd the least Mitigation of them; upon which his Electoral Highness has declar'd to the Marshal, that his Subjects of the Rhingow having been condemn'd, by the Law of his Country, to a Punishment adequate to their Indiscretion, he did not think himself at Liberty to give them up to the Marshal's Resentment: That his Fortresses of Konigstein was garrison'd by his own Troops, who should observe a strict Neutrality between the Powers engaged in this War; and with respect to his Demand of so great a Quantity of Rations to the French Army, that his Subjects having furnish'd so much to them during the Winter, the Marshal ought to know very well, that it was impossible for the whole Country to supply what he now demanded, and that he was Master to take all that he could find.

Hague, March 12. O. S. Their High Mightinesses the States General have unanimously agreed to confer, as far as depends upon them, the Command of the whole confederate Army in the low Countries for the ensuing Campaign, upon his Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland. M. Koniglegg intends to proceed for Flanders the End of this Week, as does the Prince of Waldeck and General Ligonier.

Cologne, March 12. O. S. The Duke of Arenberg is still in his Quarters at Hademar; the Hanoverians have retreated towards Wetzlar on the Lahne, and the Head Quarters of the Dutch are fixed at Limbourg: The Allies are now so advantageously posted, that they can maintain their Ground against all the Attempts of the French, tho' these are much superior to them, and secure the Lower Rhine and the Circle of Westphalia from any Surprise.

Mentz, March 13. O. S. The French quarter'd in this Territory are intrenching themselves on the Rhine, below this City, and employ a great Number of Peasants in making two Heads of Bridges at the Villages of Mondach and Hexheim, and a third at Collem on the Mayn, within a small Distance of this City. The Elector our Sovereign, in order to give Marshal Maillaboix Satisfaction, about the Peasants of the Rhingow that fir'd upon the French, resolved to send him the Guilty, who were 15 in Number, leaving their Fate in his Hands. As soon as those poor Wretches arriv'd at Hoechst, they were told that they should be all hang'd; however, they were permitted to cast Lots for only three of them to be executed; but when this was done, the French General pardon'd all the 15, and bid them go Home, acquaint their Countrymen with the Affair, and exhort them to behave better for the future. All the Inhabitants of the Rhingow are to be disarm'd.

Frankfort, March 14. O. S. The French Army return'd its March the 11th Instant, and advanced within a small Distance of the Lahne. Marshal Maillaboix has fixed his Head Quarters at Jolstein: His Troops are distributed in the Towns and Villages of the Counties of Nassau Dietz, Jullin, Weilburg and Uingen, and have extended themselves beyond this Place towards Wetzlar, occupying likewise the Town of Weilbourg on the Lahne. The last Column of the Corps brought from the Moselle by General Lowendahl, pass'd the Mayn the 12th Instant at Fledenheim, going to join the French Army, which we are assur'd, will pass the Lahne after this Junction. We hear that the Army of the Allies is still behind that River.

Ghent.

Ostend, March 17. O. S. Twenty-five Ships are arrived at Ostend, having on board Recruits, &c. for the British Troops in this Country.

Brussels, March 18. O. S. Two Regiments of Foot and two of Dragoons are raising in this Country for the Service of the King of Great Britain; their Pay will be better than that of our other Troops.

Dusseldorf, March 19. O. S. The Army of the Allies is very advantageously situated behind the Lahn, and Duke d'Arenberg has guarded all the Posts where the French can attempt to pass that River. The Dutch Troops, who have their head Quarters at Limbourg, have placed their Artillery upon three Eminences, from whence they can cannonade every Thing that comes near the Lahn. Duke d'Arenberg has made several other Dispositions, which shew that he designs to give the French a warm Reception, if they attempt to pass that River. Ever since the 18th ult. the Officers of our Garrison, who had received repeated Orders to get ready their Equipages, were allow'd Money for that Purpose, and a speedy Declaration of War was talk'd of on the Part of our Court, when, the Day before Yesterday, an Order arrived from Mannheim to suspend the Preparations. Abundance of Conjectures are form'd upon this unforeseen Event.

Hague, March 20. O. S. According to our last Advices from Muenst, it appears a Thing certain, that the French are about to make themselves Masters of that City. We are assured here, that the sole Reason of putting off our Declaration of War against a certain Power is, that from a Paper delivered to our Minister at that Court, it very clearly appears, a Resolution has been taken to declare War against us, which is what we had rather they should do. There is great Reason to believe that the French have a Mind to send a great Corps of Hussars and Dragoons thro' the Country of Hesse, into the Electorate of Hanover, while the M. Maillebois holds the Duke of Arenberg in Play.

Other particular Advices say, that a Detachment of Austrian Hussars had surpris'd a Body of French at Hombourg, the greater Part of which was put to the Sword.

The Prince and Princess of Orange have put off their Departure for Prieftland, their Royal and Serene Highnesses intending to stay here 'til the Arrival of his Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland, who will go through this Place in his Way to the Army in Flanders.

Hague, March 21. O. S. We hear, that besides the King of Great Britain and the States-General, to whom the Grand Signor has wrote about his Médiation between the Christian Powers, his Highness has sent Letters on the same Subject to the Empress of Russia, the Queen of Hungary, the King and Republick of Poland, the Kings of France, Sweden and the Two Sicilies, and the Republick of Venice.

LONDON, March 19.

The Army of the Duke of Arenberg is much inferior to that of Marshal Maillebois; but it is supposed, that he will be joined by 8000 Austrians under General Thungen, and by the Troops of the Circle, and upon this Presumption it was he march'd to the Mayn, in order to free the Country about Francfort from being harass'd and destroyed by an Army of Strangers.

We learn by private Letters from Dresden, that his Polish Majesty has shewn no great Reluctance on the Subject of the Propositions made him for placing on his Head the Imperial Crown, because he conceives it the only Means of coming to an harmonious and undisputed Election; the Electors of Brandenburg, Bavaria, and Palatine, having already made him an Offer of their Votes.

Yesterday Morning early died, at his House in Arlington-Street, after a tedious Illness, borne with great Chearfulness and Constancy, the Right Hon. Robert Earl of Orford. Letter from Bristol, March 2.

This Day arriv'd here the Onicels Privateer, Capt. John Furnell (formerly a twenty Gun Man of War) from a Cruise, and has brought in a French East-Indiaman, homeward bound from Mocha, about 200 Tons Burthen, loaded with Coffee. She is called the Frigate d'Affaires, and was taken off the Western Island, after an Engagement of five Glasses, in which the French behav'd very gallantly, and lost many Men; and after they struck they would have ransom'd the Ship, but Capt. Furnell absolutely reject'd the Offer. He has also brought in a Dogger Privateer of 14 Guns, and 122 stout Men, belonging to Bionne, which he took eleven Days after she came out, and threw all her Guns overboard except two. Seven other Privateers from Lagonne came out in Company with this.

Capt. Furnell engag'd a large Privateer the 23d of last Month, in which he lost four Men, and since that has exchanged Shots with five, or six more; but having no more than seven able Sailors on board, and a sickly Ship, he could make no Hand of them; otherwise he might have taken another Privateer, and an English West-India Ship that had been taken before. He oblig'd another Privateer to throw all her Guns overboard, not having Men enough to man her.

— We have been strangely alarm'd here on Account of five Capital Ships, and two Frigates of 36 Guns each, arriv'd at Martinico, and reported they intended to attack us immediately, but we are now of Opinion that they are only of the defensive Side, and maintaining their Settlement at St. Lucia, which they are strengthening daily. We are in the best Posture of Defence that ever this Island was, particularly English Harbour, which is a Place impregnable. Last Week was carried into St Kitts, by Capt. Lloyd, a French Guineaman with upwards of four hundred Negroes.

April 29. By Capt. Butler, from Frederica, we learn, That the Indian Scouts from that Garrison have lately made a Tour towards St. Augustine, in which Harbour they decry'd upwards of 30, some said 50 Sail of Vessels, but most agreed, That their Number was so great as to resemble rather a Cloud or a Forest. — As there is rarely above 7 or 8 Vessels in that Harbour, this uncommon Number of Shipping seen there gives the Georgians some Apprehensions of an Invasion from the French and Spaniards.

On Wednesday last the Aldborough and Tartar Men of War (who lately sail'd from hence in Quest of the Privateers that infested our Coast) return'd off this Bar, from before St. Augustine, but met with none of our Enemies Vessels nor Captures. These Men of War ('tis said) sail'd off the Bar of St. Augustine 3 Days, but the Weather proving very foggy they could not look into that Harbour.

The Aldborough is since come in.

Several Ships for Virginia and Maryland, were getting ready, when these Ships came away, and were to come under the Convoy of a Man of War, as soon as one should be order'd for that Purpose.
